Glossary of risk types

Concentration risk: This is the risk of underperformance due to an investment having an overly large adverse impact on the return. This risk is managed by the investment manager (Mercer Risk Management Limited) who operates to guidelines that ensure the assets are spread across a range of investments.

Counterparty risk: This is the risk of loss caused by the portfolio trading with a financial institution that defaults on its obligations. This risk is managed by the investment manager through the selection process of the financial institutions the Trustee contracts with and regular monitoring of the exposures.

Credit risk: This is the risk of loss arising from the default on expected cashflows. This risk is managed by the investment manager who operates within guidelines which set out diversification and credit limits.

Liquidity risk: This is the risk that there is a shortfall in easily accessible assets to meet the immediate cashflow needs. This risk is managed by the investment manager who operates to guidelines which require a sufficient level of liquid assets in each fund to provide for members' likely withdrawals, taking in account flows into the Trust and monitoring the requirements for derivative positions.

Operational risks: This is the risk of loss caused because of, but not limited to, fraud, acts of negligence or lack of suitable processes. It is managed through agreements with each service provider which are monitored regularly by the Trustee. Before the appointment of any new service provider, due diligence is undertaken. Furthermore the Trust Manager, together with the Trustee, undertakes an annual review of all key suppliers. The key suppliers with operational risk are the trust's custodian and fund administrator, the investment manager, The Trust Manager and the master trust administrator (Tata Consultancy Services Limited).
